How does a spirit forget himself?

Man in his essence is a immortal spiritual being. This being has no beginning and no end in its existence. It is the creator of things. It can create its own universe of spaces, energies, feelings, images, thoughts and ideas, etc. (recordings of the Past and fantasy to imagine and create the future). In cooperation with other spiritual beings, we can create a common universe, which we then agree upon and give it consistency. We call this then the material universe of space, energy, matter and if it contains the postulate of persistence - time.

When a human body becomes a burden and gradually loses its stability, life departs the body and that body dies. The core of life, what gives the body consciousness (the source of awareness and perception) and the ability to make decisions (knowing one is the origin of determination and can carry it out), is this immortal spiritual being. This being never dies, not even when its body dies, it just leaves the body which has become useless. This being is basically good (has constructive intentions).

As soon as the dead body has been taken care of (buried, burned or the like), the being, which was forced to leave its body, sets off to new shores. Some for whom this just ended life was horrible (often those who had decided to be evil) make up their own mind that this whole episode should be forgotten. But provisions have also been made for the others, who would like to indulge a little longer in old times (the more constructive guys), to lose their memory. You are routinely lured into the "light", an impulse given to all beings as they arrived on earth to get them back for amnesia treatment after their body death. Even some pastors seem to know about this, as they send their dead sheep into the eternal light at the funeral, in the hope that this is the "heaven".

If the being follows this urge "to have to go into the light" by impulse or command, then it actually ends up in a "heavenly show of divine energy and harmony". The many people who report about their "near death" experiences have only experienced the first phase of this "treatment" (the phase of attraction). Had they been gone through the entire electronic program, they would have awakened from their "near death" experience with complete amnesia. Therefore the purpose of this program for the spirit that returns after his physical death, is complete amnesia. After that, the being is sent back to earth with new goals to a new body. The game starts all over again.

The question is, who is keeping this game going and why?

The subsequent invasion forces

The "natives" of this galaxy (the spiritual beings that came here first - the First Invasion) are basically benevolent, spiritual contemporaries. The headquarters of this galactic confederation leans towards the center of the galaxy, while Earth is in a sector closer to the galaxy's outskirts . Long ago there were 21 stars in our sector on whose planets civilizations existed. All of these civilizations, including SOL - the sun in which our planet is located today, were originally the territory of the ancient Galactic Confederation .

Even though this civilization still exists today and is obviously very stable, there was still mental degeneration and loss of control. Decay was significantly accelerated by warlike invasion troops, who preferably penetrated the edge of the galaxy in areas with low gravity - such as our asteroid belt - in order to create bases from such areas that should enable further conquest of the galaxy.

But the decisive blow that made earth to what it is today began with the infiltration of the Galactic Confederation by the invaders, which is described in the story "Revolt in the Stars" .

Why?

Here we have the basic polarity between different groups of spiritual beings with completely contrary motivations. On the one hand there are the spirits of the Galactic Confederation who want to live in a free society, constructively and in harmony, and with full awareness of their spiritual nature. They have created their own autonomous area of life in a spatially separated world and strive to maintain this under all circumstances.

On the other side are those beings who have specialized completely in the material world with its electronic and genetic methods of enslavement. Their leaders are convinced that there is no other reasonable way in which they can move others to serve them, then open or hidden slavery, as this seems their only way to to survive. Deep down, however, these leaders are fully aware of their own worthlessness and in order to hide this, they must permanently lead others to ruin, in turn drawing attention away from them to the worthlessness of others. Well you are right – this is insanity!

That is the motivation behind all the wars and crises in our sector over the millennia.

The percentage of these characters in each nation or group is lower than might be thought (2.5% on average). However, when a nation or group is led by these people, we get an oppressive nation or group.

Origin and purpose of Homo Sapiens

So much for the long-forgotten part of the earth's history before Homo Sapiens, in the epic struggle between good and evil, which has continued through the eons to our present days of crises and wars.

Alternative researchers, have come across the lore that suggests that 450,000 years ago the extraterrestrial race of the Anunnaki created the first Homo Sapiens through genetic experiments. The purpose was to use them as workers for the mining of gold, as there was previously a rebellion of their own workforce, who regarded this work as too strenuous and dangerous. So the Anunnaki were the physical body creators of man. At first they appeared to the people as their "creators" and "gods".

Years ago a Jesuit asked me if all human beings were spiritual beings, where would all the many spiritual beings come from, who would have to animate this steadily increasing number of human bodies. If one has read and understood the story "Revolt in the Stars", one receives a sufficient answer to the question of the quantity, even without knowing about the numerous genetic and electronic details and processes of this event .

I don't know if the Anunnaki ever asked this question, but I'm sure they must have felt the "spiritual kickback" from these beings whose Homo Sapiens shells they created. In other words, there must have been rebellions here too, due to inconsistencies caused by excessive demands in slave labor or in the case of undesirable sexual abuse.

Attempts were made to solve this problem by a new edition of Homo Sapiens and a new social order. First of all, an extinction in the form of a deluge was necessary. A new edition of Homo Sapiens had been generated that was easier to control and influence mentally. In addition, genetic hybrid solutions were created between humans and Anunnaki, which, as the new leaders of this improved edition of Homo Sapiens in the form of priests, kings and rulers, could be directly mentally controlled by the Anunnaki.

This gradually brought people the phase of control by the pharaohs, the "clergy" of the religions and rulers of the nobility of the royal houses.'

Nowadays those people who control politics, economics, finance, religions, media, medicine, psychiatry etc. come from these hybrid blood lines. The prison guards of mankind have been the same clique of spiritual beings from the very beginning of their existence up to the present day. Only the shape, form and control methods changed.

There are already many publications on this clique or this "cult". The new aspect I want to convey here is that the long-forgotten story of "Revolt in the Stars" forms the basis for the spiritual enslavement of man. The Anunnaki, appearing much later, have only jumped on this train of mental control by adapting their genetic manipulations to this situation in order to improve the effectiveness of their control over humanity. But...
